All audio files are royalty-free. This means that there are no additional fees owed for commercial use of a sound file as it is incorporated into any audio or multimedia production. Once you have purchased or downloaded a (subscription) audio file, you have the non-exclusive license to use that sound as often as you like, in as many projects as you like and you will never be required to pay another fee of any kind.

Audio files cannot be copied, resold or distributed as individual files.

They can only be resold and distributed as incorporated into a complete production with added audio or visuals.

Toby Opferman may use the audio file(s) in:

- videos
- software
- games
- apps
- podcasts
- concert performances
- TV or radio advertisements
- demos
- school projects
- any other type of audio/visual projects
